Grain Growing in England.

The Rochester Union of Wednesday contains another interesting letter from the Editor from England. We clip the following observations on grain growing and reclaiming waste lands:—"It has often been matter of wonder to me that England should be able to produce the vast amount of grain which statistics prove she does produce. If I do not forget—for I have no statistics at hand and am obliged to speak from memory—England during the later years of the corn law produced more wheat than the whole United States. Her product of oats, barley, &c., was in something like the same proportion. In those days Western New York was a great wheat-growing country; and the same remark was true of large portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and some of the Western States. The aggregate area of our wheat-growing districts was of course vastly greater than the whole of Britain. And we of Western New York especially, were loth to believe that any other country of equal extent could produce better or a larger quantity of wheat and other grains. Yet there were the statistics, which sadly militated with our notions, and which, to me at least, seemed inexplicable. But now that I have traversed England in almost all directions, and observed her agriculture as closely as my opportunities would permit, I can comprehend how it is that this country produces so much more grain in proportion to its area than our own grain-growing districts. In the first place, with the exception of a few mountainous districts, which cover but a small portion of her territory, there is but little land in England which is not under cultivation. In former ages, as we know from Macaulay and other writers, there were large swamps which produced nothing for the sustenance of man; and that there were immense barrens which were substantially unproductive. But now all these things are changed. The marshes of those days have all been drained, and are now among the most fertile portions of the country. In passing through England in almost any direction you will often enter upon an extensive plain, which you would expect to see covered with the vegetation peculiar to marshy districts. But as you get fairly into it, you will observe that it is laden with heavy crops of wheat, oats, barley, &c., &c., the result of a more thorough system of drainage, perhaps, than any other country can boast.

A DIFFICULTY NOT EASILY REMOVED.—The numerous sewers that open into the Thames from the city of London, render the water so offensive that it is exhalant effluvia more terrible if possible than that which created a panic last year; the committees of the House of Commons are obliged to sit with their windows shut, in order to escape the stench which rises from the river and penetrates every corner of the edifice which is not closed against it.

The Worcester (Mass.) Transcript says: "A clob of young ladies, two of them daughters of our leading physicians, have for some time been practicing on Curtis's Pond, and are now ready to enter the race whenever a new boat shall give them a fair chance in the struggle. They have so far condescended to the weakness of humanity as to have a gentleman for coxswain—but then the Rev. T. W. Higginson is a more firm believer in women's mission than the majority of ladies themselves; and they only admit him into the stern of the boat."

A perfect mummy was found floating in the river at St. Louis on the 27th inst.—It is supposed that the body had been buried in the bank of the river where the soil had some peculiar antiseptic preservative quality, and that it had been washed out by the high tide. The remnant of a shroud hung about the shoulders.

SHARP PRACTICE.—A San Francisco shopkeeper was cunningly outwitted a few weeks since by an unprincipled female in this wise: A lady, attracted by the "loveliness" of a cloak gracefully hung over a mock woman's figure, purchased it. In the act of paying however, it became apparent that her business lacked just one dollar of the required amount. After a little reflection, she told the shopkeeper that she would leave with him all the money she had then, and send her husband during the day with the balance. To this, of course, the shopkeeper consented.—Among other customers of the same day, a "lady," No. 2, was also fascinated by the charms of this cloak, for which the greater portion of the price had been paid, and, on inquiry, was informed by the dealer that it was already disposed of, at the same time unobtrusively mentioning the particular relative to the purchase. She sought an accomplice who soon reached the shopkeeper's emporium. The unwary dealer promptly wrapped up the cloak in a neat parcel and politely handed it over to the pretended husband who quickly departed. But what was the shopkeeper's astonishment, when after the lapse of a few hours, the veritable husband of the lady No. 1 made his appearance. There was no alternative; the cloak was not sent, and the money had to be refunded. And what was his still greater astonishment when in a few moments a third husband came in anxious for a cloak! He sunk in despair, leaving his clerk to settle the matter, thinking he had been swindled enough. The last corner proved to be a genuine husband and of course had to be satisfied.

CHARLES C. PLYMPTON, the Route Agent between Albany and Rutland, who lost his life by this catastrophe, was a young man greatly esteemed by all his acquaintances. His character was irreproachable. The inmates of the Albany Postoffice will long remember his gentlemanly and modest bearing, as he quietly came among them almost daily, and the faithful manner in which he discharged his duties. He had been in this service some six or seven years. His father is a prominent citizen and business man in Vermont. Only the day before his death Col. North, the Special Mail Agent, in conversation with young Plympton asked him why he did not leave the road and engage in other business, urging some reasons why it would be for his interest to do so. He acknowledged their force and said his father was anxious to have him return and engage in business at home, but that he had become attached to the service he was in and thought he would continue for a while. The next day he was dead. How uncertain is the future of every one of us!

"WORMS" ON THE FACE.—An editor informs a correspondent as follows:—"Little black specks, are occasionally observed upon the nose and forehead of some individuals. These specks, when they exist in any number, are a cause of much unsightliness. They are minute corks, if we may use the term of congealed lymph, which close the orifices of some of the pores or exhalant vessels of the skin. On the skin, immediately adjacent to them, being pressed with the finger nail, these bits of congealed lymph will come from it in a vermicular form. They are vulgarly called 'flesh worms,' many persons fancying them to be living creatures. These may be got rid of, and prevented from returning by washing with tepid water, by proper friction with a towel, and by the application of a little cold cream. The longer these little piles are permitted to remain in the skin, the more firmly they become fixed; and after a time, when they lose their moisture, they are converted into little bony spines, as dense as bristles, and having much of that character.

A work time since a young man with his wife arrived in Chicago from Poughkeepsie, where by years of steady industry he had accumulated some $10,000. This money, all he was worth in the world, he put into wheat at one dollar per bushel, supposing that the war would create a foreign demand and that the price must go up. He bought some 30,000 bushels at this rate, and made the usual advances, hoping to sell enough to meet his obligations as they matured. But the crash came and every dollar invested has dwindled down to fifty cents, leaving the unfortunate speculator worth some thousands of dollars less than nothing.

IDOLATRY.—An exchange says that the Chinese have a temple in San Francisco which cost $20,000, and have imported an idol from China at a cost of $30,000. It is the image of a man who figured in China three hundred years ago and was a great statesman and warrior, as one said, "like your Washington." The only efforts in California to Christianize the Chinese are by the Methodists at Sacramento. The law prohibiting Chinamen from coming to the State is pronounced unconstitutional, and their number, now sixty thousand, is rapidly increasing.

Eighteen thousand sheep and lambs have been received at New York this week. The extreme drought has parched the grass and induced their owners to send them forward.

Since the union of the two Canadas the debt has increased from six to sixty millions, and the annual expenses of the government from a million and a quarter to eleven millions and a half. The great expenditures have been made to conciliate various localities, and to fatten speculators.

At a recent meeting of peach-growers in the vicinity of Woodville, Mercer county, N. J., it was ascertained that in a space of country about three miles square there would be at least 30,000 baskets of peaches for shipment. In this space there are over 92,000 trees planted, 32,000 of which are in bearing.

The corner stone of the national monument to the forefathers, was laid with appropriate ceremonies on Monument Hill at Plymouth, Mass., on Monday. The address of the occasion was delivered by Richard Warren, of New York. Dinner for 2,500 persons was served in a mammoth tent. A ball in Davis' Hall, and illuminations and fireworks on the green closed the festivities of the day.

Over 600 persons sat down at one table, in a hotel, at Saratoga, Saturday.—Saratoga is now full and over full,—but the capacity of the place to hold everything and everybody is as great as ever, and how great that is, no one can tell, as no one there ever was turned off for want of a bed or half of a bed, or some sort of a bed.

A prodigious calf, weighing five hundred pounds, fourteen weeks old, native of New York, was sold at Washington drove yards for $37.50. A boy named Hoffman, aged fourteen years, had taken it from the dam when five days old, and fed it on meat and milk till the day of sale. The average gain in weight per day was five pounds.

It has been irreverently suggested that the new church about to be established by the Rev. Dr. Bellows, under the name of the "Broad Church," should be called the Broad Gauge Church. Either way, we do not see how it could be made to harmonize with the scripture, which declares that "strait is the gate, and narrow is the way that leads to life, and few there be that find it."

CELEBRATED
AND LIVER PILLS.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the Trade, and more especially the Physicians of the country, to two of the most popular remedies now before the public. We refer to

Dr. Chas. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills.

We do not recommend them as universal Cure-alls, but simply for what their name purports, viz.:

THE VERMIFUGE,
For expelling Worms from the human system. It has also been administered with the most satisfactory results to various Animals subject to Worms.

THE LIVER PILLS,
For the cure of LIVER COMPLAINTS, all BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS, SICK HEAD-ACHE, &c. In cases of FEVER AND AGUE, preparatory to or after taking Quinine, they almost invariably make a speedy and permanent cure.

As specifics for the above mentioned diseases, they are Unrivalled, and never known to fail when administered in accordance with the directions.

Their unprecedented popularity has induced the proprietors,

FLEMING BROTHERS,
PITTSBURGH, PA.

to dispose of their Drug business, in which they have been successfully engaged for the last Twenty Years, and they will now give their undivided time and attention to their manufacture. And being determined that Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills shall continue to occupy the high position they now hold among the great remedies of the day, they will continue to spare neither time nor expense in procuring the Best and Purest material, and compound them in the most thorough manner. Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Dr. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take note that Dr. M'Lane's Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post paid, in any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one trial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. CHAP. 371.
AN ACT to submit to the people a law authorizing a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to provide for the payment of the floating debt of the State.

Passed April 13th, 1899—the Senate being present.

The People of the State of New York represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The commissioners of the canal fund are hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the state two million five hundred thousand dollars, at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum, and reimbursable at such periods as shall be determined by the said commissioners, not exceeding eighteen years from the date of making such loan. All the provisions of law in relation to loans made by commissioners of the canal fund, and the issues and transfer of certificates of stock, shall apply to loans authorized by this act, so far as the same are applicable.

§ 2. The moneys raised by such loan shall be applied exclusively to the payment of claims against the state not otherwise provided for, for work done on the canal of the state, and for private property appropriated by the state for the use of such canal, and for injury to private property growing out of the construction of the canal, or to the payment of the principal and interest of such loan, and for no other purpose whatever.

§ 3. Two million five hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, to be paid out of the treasury, on the warrant of the auditor of the canal department, from the said moneys, within two years from the time when this act shall take effect, for the payment of claims against the state specified in the last preceding section, and for the payment of the interest on the loan authorized by this act, which shall become payable prior to the receipt into the treasury of the first annual tax, hereinafter directed to be levied and collected, for the payment of the interest and principal of the loans authorized by this act; but any sum applied to pay interest as aforesaid, may be refunded out of the proceeds of the said taxes when received into the treasury.

§ 4. An annual tax is hereby imposed, and shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other state taxes are levied and collected sufficient to pay the interest and redeem the principal of the loan hereby authorized, within eighteen years from the time of the contracting thereof. The comptroller shall ascertain and determine what said being applied in payment of principal and interest, in the first year after the tax can be collected as aforesaid, and in each succeeding year thereafter, within a period of eighteen years from the time of contracting said loan, will be sufficient to pay the interest and redeem the principal of said loan within said period of eighteen years; and shall in each year apportion the sum so required among the several counties of this state, according to the then last corrected assessment rolls returned to his office, and shall give notice of such apportionment to the boards of supervisors of the respective counties, to be approved in each year, to be levied, collected and paid to the treasurer of this state in the same manner as other state taxes. The money collected and paid into the treasury under this section shall constitute a sinking fund to pay the interest and redeem the principal of the loan contracted pursuant to this act, and shall be severally applied to that purpose; and if at any time the sinking fund shall be insufficient to comply with the requirements of this section, the comptroller shall increase the sum therefor to be levied and collected by tax in each year, so as to make the fund adequate for the purpose aforesaid.

§ 5. The fourth section of this act, imposing a tax may be repeated whenever the revenues of the canal, after meeting all present constitutional charges upon them, shall amount to enough to form a sinking fund sufficient to pay the interest and redeem the principal of all loans without the eighteen years mentioned in the first section of this act.

§ 6. This act shall be submitted to the people of this state, at the next election, and the votes given for its adoption, shall be endorsed "Constitutional loan," and shall be in the following form: "For a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars, to pay the floating debt of the state," and "Against a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars to pay the floating debt of the state." The inspectors of the several election districts in this state, shall provide a separate box, in which the ballots given in pursuance of this act shall be deposited. The ballots shall be canvassed and returned, and the result shall be votes given for the office of Governor of this state, and certified in the same manner as state. If a majority of the votes cast, pursuant to this act, shall be "For a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars to pay the floating debt of the state," then the preceding sections of this act shall take effect; but if a majority of the votes cast, shall be "Against a loan of two million five hundred thousand dollars to pay the floating debt of the state," then the said sections shall not take effect, but shall be inoperative.

You are without delay to deliver a copy of the above notice to the Supervisor of your county, and also to cause a copy of said notice to be published in the daily public newspaper printed in your county, once in each week until the election.
